

Editorials

Editorials are short, invited opinion pieces that discuss an issue of immediate importance to the research community. Editorials should have fewer than 1000 words, no abstract, a minimal number of references (definitely no more than 5).

Outlines of Editorials

- Title
- Authors' full names and affiliations
- Body of text
- References

Title: Titles should be informative, thought-provoking inviting and should be no more than 100 characters in length.

Example

Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit sed do eiusmod tempor incididunt ut labore et dolore magna aliqua- Editorial

Editor name and affiliation:

Editor Name [First Name Middle Name Last Name]

Address:

Professor, Department of Material Science,
Name of University, City,
Country, Pincode.

Body of text: The ideal Editorial, begins with an introductory paragraph that immediately presents the issues under discussion in a way that captures the reader's interest. The introduction should be general enough to orient the reader not familiar with the specifics of the field being discussed. Here, and throughout the article, the author should avoid the jargon and special terms of his or her field or system. If the language of specialists is necessary, define terms for the general reader. The body of the text should, in the limited space available, develop the discussion in a lively manner. Section headings can be used when necessary and should be short (no more than 30 characters). The final paragraph should draw the piece to a concise conclusion, without simply restating the text.

Figures: The figure should illustrate the essential message of the article. It can be a drawing, graph, chart, table, or photograph. The point is to catch the eye while informing the reader.
